

COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Adopted at the Convention Held in Provo on Monday, October 1, 1894.

The democratic party of Utah county in convention assembled, hereby proclaims the following principles:

We reaffirm our allegiance to the party principles as set forth in the national platform adopted at Chicago in June, 1892, and we are in hearty accord with the territorial platform adopted at Salt Lake city on September 15, 1894.

We rejoice with the whole people of the territory that Utah is about to enter the union as a free and sovereign state. Local self-government is a democratic principle vouchsafed to us. Our party has again demonstrated that the people may be trusted.

We extend to the democratic congress and president our heart-felt gratitude for the many expressions of good will to the people of Utah; in the passage of the liberal enabling act; in restoring to the Mormon church its confiscated property; in opening the Indian reservations for settlement; in the wise appointment of honest and able citizens to Utah local offices; in the extensive grants of land for various public purposes; in the enfranchisement of hundreds of our citizens by the provisions of the enabling act; and by the more recent amnesty proclamation of President Cleveland, all of which acts of friendship are in striking contrast to the treatment accorded Utah by the republican party.

I proudly we point to the record of our delegates in congress, Hon. J. H. Hawley, whose untiring zeal, great ability, tact and diplomacy have secured to us so many acts beneficial to Utah. His indefatigable labor and unparalleled success will surely be approved and rewarded by his return to congress with a vastly increased majority.

We further commend the action of the democratic congress and administration for the measure of tariff reform effected, whereby hundreds of millions of dollars will be saved to the people of this country. Obstructed as they were at every move by determined opposition, they nevertheless succeeded in wresting from wealth and plutocracy a portion of the means of increasing their ill-gotten gains, and in relieving McKinleyism of a lost cause. We especially endorse the income tax provision of the tariff law, whereby those most able will be required to bear a more just portion of the burdens of taxation.

In the repealing of the federal election law, and thus securing freedom of citizens at the polls.

In revising the pension lists and pension laws so as to prevent spoliation of the public treasury by the undeserving, while dealing liberally and justly with those who deserve the aid of government.

It behooves the people of this country and this territory, to keep the republican party out of power. It is the party of broken and post-mortem promises, whose policy, prompted by avarice and individual aggrandizement, has precipitated the recent panic and brought this country to the verge of ruin.

We arraign the recent republican legislature of Utah for its intense partisanship and inefficiency, for its attempt to divert the public moneys from their legitimate use to the payment of bonuses to select private enterprises. Had it not been for the wise action of the governor, more than $80,000 would have been taken from the public school fund. For its refusal to appropriate sufficient funds for the insane asylum, the Agricultural College and the University of Utah, by which among other things it has only succeeded in making itself more unpopular.

We call upon the people to see to it that the state of Utah shall be founded upon the broad principles of the democratic party, which are the principles of justice and free government. Care must be exercised that monopolies shall not get control of the public lands granted to the state of Utah, and that as far as possible these lands be granted only to the actual settler.

We declare ourselves in favor of the free public school system where the children of the rich and the poor alike may partake freely of the blessings of public instruction.

We are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold.

Relying upon the fidelity, intelligence and patriotism of the people of Utah county we confidently expect by their votes a complete vindication of the principles herein enumerated.

Cable From Queen Lil.

Dear Gresham:—One more boon I crave.

I trust in your affection.

'Tis not to murder Dole, the Knae; Nor put down insurrection;

'Tis not my crown, but me to save I write in deep dejection.

And so a package I must have Of Park's Tea for my complexion.

Gresham's Answer to Queen Lil.

When I received your cablegram I thought I sure would faint.

For though I often use 'Park's Tea' 'Tis not for your complaint.

I feared that Mrs. G. would think Wrong about our connection 'Till on her dresser there I saw 'Park's Tea' for her complexion.

HICKEN AND HONEY.

A FORAGING EXPEDITION OF ONE MAN IN THE WINTER OF 1863.

Lang Knew the Country and Also Human Nature, For His Little Bluff Warfare.

Uncle Joe, Who Was "Cap'n" Then, Liked His Chicken Done Brown.

"It was a wretched night back in 1863," said Uncle Joe.

Uncle Joe's stories of the war were things to be looked forward to and remembered. He had served during the entire four years as a commissioned officer and knew where he spoke, having an excellent memory and an infinitely humorous way of telling the adventures of himself and his men.

"It was in Missouri in the winter of 1863 on a cold raw night that I, the officer of the day, prepared about midnight to make, with half a dozen of the guard, what is called the 'grand round,' or, more plainly speaking, the visiting of the soldiers doing picket duty at their different posts. We were on short rations, and every man of us, officer or private, longed for a good, square meal to brace him up against the raw, damp coldness of the night. As I was about to spring into my saddle a low voice at my shoulder said:

"Cap'n, how would a snapper of chicken and honey taste?"

"I swung hastily around and beheld the speaker. He was a fellow called Lang, one of our most valuable spies, and in some respects a mighty clever fellow, but in—oh, well, I'll let it go by saying that his moral nature had never been overdeveloped. He was a short, thickset man, twinking black eyes and otherwise the most thoroughly impassive face I ever looked into. It was said of him that he would slip into the butt of a rebel and make himself much at home in Lee's army. He was half felled with all the men and came back to the Union lines possessed of the most invaluable information. He had experienced thrilling adventures and was a man of intrepid courage.

"Cap'n," he repeated as he stood beside me that cold night, "how would a snapper of chicken and honey taste?"

"Excellent, Lang, excellent," I replied, thinking of our limited supply of smoked meat and hard tack. "Have you some?"

"No, but I might get some, I reckon, if I looked round a bit," he drawled, lazily kicking up clay with the toe of his boot. I saw immediately that he meant to go out of camp, find a farmhouse and help himself. Such things are not unheard of in the army.

"Nonsense, Lang," said I. "You would be killed sure if you went. The pickets are on extra sharp lookout tonight, and it's altogether too dangerous. You would never come back alive."

"With that I sprang into my saddle and rode away, followed by my men.

"We were gone two or three hours, making the rounds of the pickets, and a more miserable ride I had seldom taken. I was chilled to the bone and hungry and my men likewise. As I rode back toward camp the glow of a bonfire in a remote corner caught my eye, and I immediately turned my weary horse toward it.

"Supper's most ready, cap'n," he said, touching his apology for a cap. Make yourselves to home, gentlemen.

"Lang," said I sternly, "didn't I tell you not to go?"

"No, cap'n," he replied as he continued to cut up the plump fowl in his hand; "you didn't say I couldn't go, although if I remember correctly, you didn't exactly advise it on the score of its being dangerous, but a man what's the life I have ain't got to let him he's hungry," and he held toward me the plump leg of a chicken nicely browned.

"Lang," said I, "tell me how you did it."

"No very great matter," he replied, proceeding with his culinary art. "When you'd gone, I walks along quiet to the outpost and finds a picket walking up and down like he owns the earth, so I hops down on my stomach, alongside of him. Bein a dark night, as it is, Mr. Picket comes along and don't suspect that fence so much as harborin a mouse. Minute he gets half a rod away over that fence I goes lightninlike and takes a snort into some woods close by and then goes about my business."

"Go on," said I, with my mouth full of chicken and honey.

"Lang continued: 'You see, I know this country mighty well, so I makes tracks for a farmhouse close by where they keeps plenty of chickens. When I opens the gate to go in, I hops along dog. Well, cap'n, that's the only dog I ever met with that I couldn't neither scare or make friends with. No, sir, that dog wouldn't take no stock in bluffs, so I whips out my revolver and lays him out. At that up goes a wind-ow, and a man begins to yell to find out who's there. 'Put your head inside that window and keep it there, or I'll knock it off for you,' says I. 'Now Jim,' I continues, 'you just watch that window, and if the fellow sticks his head out don't wait to be ceremoniouslike, but just fire. I'm goin to get some chicken and honey.' Course there wasn't no Jim along, but that fellow in the house had to be kept out of the way, so, being a dark night, I just bluffed him about there being more than just me around. You bet he keeps his head inside, and I goes to the chicken house and helps myself to some plump young codgers, and takin a bee-line on the other shoulder makes tracks for the camp the way I come.

"Have a piece of the breast, cap'n. That's done particular brown, the way you like it."—Chicago Post.
